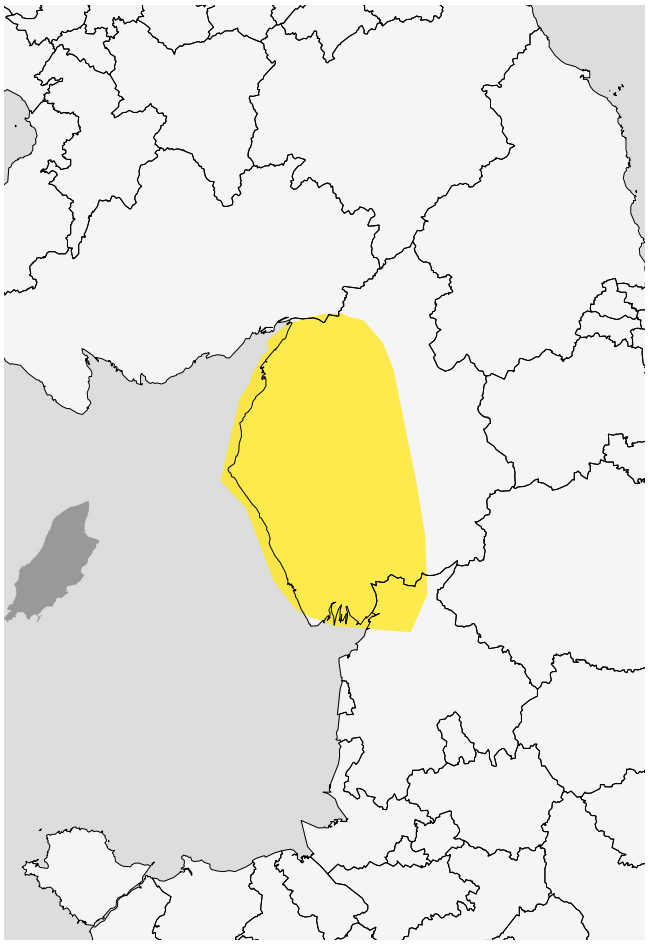
Yellow warning
Ice

Between
00:00 Sun 3 Dec 2023 and
11:00 Sun 3 Dec 2023



After Saturday's snow, ice will likely become a hazard through Sunday morning, making for difficult travel

What to expect

- Probably some icy patches on some untreated roads, pavements and cycle paths
- Some injuries from slips and falls on icy surfaces

Further details

A few snow flurries may continue into the early hours of Sunday, but the main hazard will be refreezing of any melted snow, or freezing of lying snow. This will likely lead to difficult travel conditions across the area. Temperatures will slowly recover Sunday morning, with further thaw of lying snow and melting of ice.

What should I do?

Keep yourself and your family safe when it is icy. Plan to leave the house at least five minutes earlier than normal.

Medium likelihood of low impacts

Not needing to rush, reduces your risk of accidents, slips, and falls.

If you need to make a journey on foot or by bike, try to use pavements along main roads which are likely to be less slippery.

Give yourself the best chance of avoiding delays by checking road conditions if driving, or bus and train timetables, amending your travel plans if necessary.

Be prepared for weather warnings to change: when a weather warning is issued, the Met Office recommends staying up to date with the weather forecast in your area.
